Thursday, December 24. 1702.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Dec. 9.

Venice, Nov. 18.

Letters from Verona advise, that the weather growing worse every day, the Duke de Vendome had quitted his Camp at Luzara, and was march'd towards the Secchia, to pass that River, and fall upon the Quarters of the Germans; where he might have succeeded to his desire, having the Advantage of 2 days March before Prince Eugene, had not the continual Rains oblig'd him to send part of his Army into Quarters in the Modeneze, and to return to Guastalla with the rest. Prince Eugene having pass'd the Secchia, has order'd several Posts to be fortified about Mirandola, and Finale on the Frontier of the Modeneze, where he has extended his Quarters along the Panaro, as far as Buon Porto. He has also sent 400 Men to Buondeno, on the Frontiers of the Ferrareze, where they are throwing up Works to secure themselves. The Advices from Mantua assure us that the Count de Thesse has receiv'd Orders to Command there during the Winter; that the Garrison is to be augmented to 10000 Men; that the Retrenchments which were thrown up by the Germans at Ponte Merlano are ruin'd, and those at Due Castelli fortified. The Marquess d'Arrigoni, and some other Gentlemen, suspected of corresponding with the Imperialists, are seiz'd and imprison'd in the Castle of Mantua.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, Dec. 18.

Rome, Nov. 25. The report continues of the Pope's resolution to take a Journey to Loretto in the Month of April; on which occasion a Jubilee will be granted to all the Cities, Villages, and other places through which his Holiness passes. All the Nobility of Rome have obey'd the Pope's Orders, in keeping an exact Neutrality in the Difference that happen'd between the Cardinal de Grimaldi and the Duke d'Uzeda Ambassador of Spain. The Page belonging to the Ambassador, who was wounded in the Scuffle between the Cardinal's Domesticks and those of the Ambassadors, is Dead.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Dec. 9.

Rome, Nov. 14. The Ambassador of the City of Ferrara has had Audience of the Pope, to demand a Reinforcement of Troops for the better Security of that City, and the Countries adjacent, from the Attempts of the Germans; who notwithstanding the Assurances given by the Imperial Ministers that they would not enter into the Ecclesiastical Territories, begin to give out, that if they are straiten'd for Subsistence they shall be constrain'd to take Quarters in the Ferrareze.

From the Hague Gazette, dated Dec. 18.
